

Sam's Story

Sam's story begins when he left Birmingham to study Politics at Nottingham Trent University in 2014. Sam loved his time in Nottingham, and keen to enjoy all that university life had to offer, complemented his studies by becoming actively involved in sports clubs and societies, eventually becoming president of the Drama Society!

Sam always knew he wanted to come back to Birmingham after his studies to launch a career. Initially, like many graduates, Sam was unsure on what career path he wanted to take. Keen to explore potential careers, he sought out work experience in PR and Sales, before setting his sights on recruitment as a potential career.

After finishing university in the summer of 2017, Sam began to search for the role he felt was right for him. Becoming aware of SimkissGuy Recruitment via social media, and being intrigued by the unique nature of the business, he applied and was successfully interviewed for the role of Relationship Coordinator. Sam is delighted to join a flourishing company where he can develop and grow.

Sam joined the SimkissGuy Recruitment team on 30th October 2017.
